Moss Point Negro Girl Wounded

Newsman Fired
At By Passing
Car Of Negroes

PASCAGOULA (AP) — A teenage Moss Point Negro girl was wounded once by a shot fired from a passing car into a Moss Point hall where a Civil Rights rally was under way Monday night, an attending physician said Tuesday.

Dr. Reuben Morris of Pascagoula said Jessie Stallworth, 16, was wounded by a .22 calibre bullet which struck her in the upper back and emerged in the chest area between the seventh and eighth ribs.

The doctor said the girl, reported in good condition, "might have to" undergo surgery later.

No official version of the incident has been made available as yet by Jackson County authorities.

There has also been no confirmation from official sources as to whether the reported arrests of three Negro men is connected with a threatened assault on three newsmen.

Roy Haines, managing editor, and Jerry St. Be and John Lechner, reporters, of the Mississippi Press-Register, a Pascagoula edition of the Mobile, Ala., Press-Register, were en route to the Civil Rights hall Monday night when a shot fired from a passing car shattered a windowglass in their automobile.

The newsmen drove to a Highway 63 service station near Pascagoula to inspect the damage when a carload of Negroes drove up and told the attendant they were after the newsmen.

The Negroes were reported frightened away only after the attendant seized a shotgun and fired two shots into the air.

Stallworth, Lodie
Dec. 16, 1960

36-year-old woman is victim Tuesday
on Telephone Road

Fire swept through a wood frame house on Telephone Road Tuesday claiming the life of a 36-year-old invalid woman.

Fatally burned in the noon hour blaze was Lodie Stallworth.

The woman's mother — 60-year-old Lula Stallworth — suffered second degree burns about the face and hands when she tried in vain to rescue her daughter from the blazing house.

She was treated at Singing River Hospital.

One fireman — T. A. Smith — received a minor cut on the hand while battling the blaze which raged out of control for nearly two hours.

Strong winds fanned the flames which threatened an adjacent building.

It was an employee of the next door body shop that discovered the blaze shortly before noon.

The dead woman's body was found in a bedroom huddled against a wall badly burned. H. C. Travillion, a funeral home manager, entered the still burning home to remove the body.

Authorities said the woman — a mentally retarded invalid — apparently tried to escape the blaze but suffocated and collapsed before she could reach safety.

Witnesses said the woman's mother was visiting a nearby neighbor when she learned of the fire.

They said she rushed into the blazing house, searched frantically from room to room then staggered onto the front porch coughing and screaming that her "baby" was still in the house.

The victim's father was away from home at time of the fire.

The house was owned by the dead girl's brother-in-law John Jones with whom she and her parents lived.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in Beaufort, Ala. Local services were held here Tuesday night at Gulf Breeze Home.
